

New Publication Available for Download March 2010

Streamlining Online Grant Applications: A Review of Vendors

Online grant application systems can be a timesaver to all involved—or they can cause grantseekers and grantmakers alike to tear their hair out in frustration. They're clearly an advance from paper applications, but the degree to which they actually provide a good experience varies a lot from system to system.

Streamlining Online Grant Applications: A Review of Vendors evaluates seven different vendors against Project Streamline's Essential and Gold Standard features for online applications and reporting.

This publication is available at www.projectstreamline.org

Improving Grant Application and Reporting